

Epidural Veins

- Venous plexus of Batson
- Valveless veins connecting pelvic veins to cranial veins directly
- Accidental injection of air or LA can directly ascend to cranium
- These veins directly drains into IVC so whenever there is obstruction to vena caval flow as in pregnancy , abdominal tumours these veins are engorged reducing the size of epidural space and less dose is required.